DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 38-51, drawn to a method of delivering β -hydroxy short-medium chain fatty acid or oligomer to the large intestine.

Group II, claim(s) 52-54, drawn to a method of treating or preventing inflammatory bowel syndrome.

Group III, claim(s) 52-53 and 55 drawn to a method of treating or preventing irritable bowel syndrome.

Group IV, claim(s) 52-53 and 56 drawn to a method relieving stress.

Group V, claim(s) 52-53 and 57 drawn to a method for promoting fat mobilization.

Group VI, claim(s) 52-53 and 58 drawn to a method of treating or preventing large bowel cancer.

Group VII, claim(s) 52-53 and 59 drawn to a method of keeping bowel movement normal.

Group VIII, claim(s) 52-53 and 60 drawn to a method of treating or preventing diarrhea.

Group IX, claim(s) 52-53 and 61 drawn to a method of treating or preventing constipation.

Group X, claim(s) 52-53 and 62 drawn to a method of treating or preventing hyperlipidemia.

Group XI, claim(s) 52-53 and 63 drawn to a method of treating or preventing urinary nitrogen excretion.

The inventions listed as Groups I-XI do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: specifically group I is a method of administering β -hydroxy short-medium chain fatty acid or oligomer to the large intestine, however it is well known in the art that fatty acids are surfactant type of molecules used in drug delivery of hydrophobic drugs for instance, therefore administration of a fatty acid is not necessarily for the same technical feature of the methods of treatment of diseases within groups II-XI. Groups II-XI all claim different types of diseases from different technical fields and a search for one type of disease treatable by a fatty acid such as irritable bowel syndrome will not necessarily overlap in scope or a prior art search for the other diseases such as large bowel cancer. As evidence the examiner relies upon the teachings of Hara (Biosci. Microflora, 21, 35-42, 2002, cited by applicants), Hara while teaching that fatty acids may be useful in the treatment of colon cancer is silent on the use of such fatty acids for the treatment of irritable bowel syndrome, inflammatory bowel disease, stress relief, treating diarrhea, constipation, hyperlipidemia or reducing urinary nitrogen excretion.

This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

If applicants elect group I above then they must elect the species that produces polyhydroxy fatty acid selected from a microorganism or a plant.

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

The following claim(s) are generic: 45-49.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
